WORK OF THE CITY SCHOOLS.

SUPERINTENDENT JASPER'S REPORT.

SPECIAL PROMINENCE GIVEN TO LANGUAGE LES

SONS AND MANUAL TRAINING. In view of the charges which have been made against Superintendent Jasper's administration of the schools, his annual report, which has just been presented, will have more than usual interest. Ther are now 302 schools and departments under the super vision of the Board of Education, with an average a nce of nearly 155,000 pupils, while the umber of pupils taught in the year was over 306,000. The increase of pupils last year was less than the pre-ceding year, owing to the fact that no new building were opened in the upper district where the population s growing fastest. In reference to the school accomtions, the report says:

If these buildings now recommended were ready for supancy to-day, most of them would be crowded with upils within one year, and all of them, no matter where would be full within two years. After the buildings shall have been erected, in order that the school accommodation shall keep pace with the increase in school population, it will be absolutely necessary to erect each and every year at least three new school buildings of the largest size.

The studies and exercises of language lessons brought into prominence by the report as follows: In the six primary grades are to be found reading, includ-

lessons read; phonetics, spelling and punctuation of lessons including forms, colors and familiar object object lessons are conducted with a three-fold purpose the developing of the pupils power of observation, the enlarging of their vocabulary and the cultivation of correc speech. In the eight grammar grades the course includes reading, together with the meaning of selected words and terms as they are used in the reading lessons; the systematic correction of errors in speech. Pre-eminent it permanent value among all the studies and exercises of the schools is reading. No other element of school work has been so frequently written upon. No other subject has brought forth so varied, so proligious, an array of school text-books. But, notwithstanding all this, it is at least doubtful whether the educational systems of the day make full use of the opportunities and materials or me

DISCUSSING MANUAL TRAINING.

On the subject of manual training the report says: In view of the vague and conflicting ideas on this subject, the advance has been made with conservation, and with a deep sense of the responsibility. Two years ago subject was referred to a special committee. The ques-tion had arisen, also, whether this method of instruction should be made a part of the course of study in the co ols of the city? If so, what kind of exercises should constitute the work of the proposed new branch? What part of the school-time should be assigned to them? How part of the school-time should be assumed the amount of could this time be found without increasing the amount of work already required of pupils and teachers, and without adding to the time stready required?

After an examination of the methods of all the leading menual training art and trade schools in the United States, Among the many inquiries made, three were of leading in Is the discipline of manual training profitably applicable to all the various grades of pupils in the schools, or are its advantages necessarily confined to the limited number who reach the hichest grammar school grade and the high schools and colleges? What effect, if any, has the introduction of this new subject had upon the proficiency of pupils in other departments of instruction would the necessary additional expense be relatively small, or would it add unduly to the cost of public instruction

The answers to these questions were in every way en-couraging, and the committee after many and careful de-liberations made a full report to the Board in June, 1887. This report contained an outline of the history of manual training in Europe and the United States, a full statement of its objects and principles, and of its radical differences from the training in the mechanic arts such as is given in the trade schools, and it particularly emphasized the fact that the character and the force of the discipline thus given to the intellect is in every way more important than the development of mere mechanical aptitudes, however valu-able they may be. It was also shown that this new step, if taken, would be only one of a long series by which, durlast quarter of a century, the common school sys tem had advanced to more perfect methods, and that the fact that great improvements had been made pointed clearly

ORDERING A TRIAL TO BE MADE. The report was adopted by the Hoard of Education, and it was directed that a trial should be made in a limited number of grammar schools, not to exceed six male departments and six female departments, together with those same, and that a reasonable time be allowed for the experment, and that these exercises should not be introduced into any school except upon application by the trustees of the ward in which said school is situated.

The time assigned to the manual training exercises is one hour and a half per week for the primary schools and three lower grammar school grades, and two hours per week in the five upper grades. For the more definite un-derstanding of the working of the present course of study and of the possibility of finding time for the new exercises, e following statement is made: The five school-days of the week afford nominally thirty school hours. One hour each day is allotted to the noon recess. From the remaining twenty-five hours the openleaving about twenty-two hours for perual instruction The Board, by general regulation, prescribes the minimum time that must be given to each group of exercises. The sum total of these minimum times is about twelve hours and a half ner week. The remainder, or forty-three pe cent of the actual time, is left to be distributed at the diseretion of the principal among those studies which he or she may think to be in special need of more time. From six and one-third to about nine per cent only of the working time is required for the new element. When it is con red that the drawing and a large part of the object lessons are now included in the manual training, it will be seen that the time actually taken from the other studies forms but a small part of the whole.

The register of 1887 shows the whole number pupils under six years to have been 5.137, over fourteen years 9.602, and of the last 4.545 were males and 4.769 females. During the year 2,573 will graduate from the schools. The whole number of teachers in the schools is 3,648, making an average of forty-two pupils for each teacher.

LIVELY WORK AT THE NAVY YARD. There was an air of exuberance about the Nav

Yard vesterday and also an increase in the force of the workingmen; the decks of the new cruiser rang with their voices, the wheels and cables of the derricks alongside of the Chicago and the Boston sent forth cheering sounds. It was the actual resumption of work to complete the new cruisers. The mizzenmast is in place on the Chicago and it is expected that all the masts will be in before another week passes. The work of placing the mast was stopped because the derrick was out of order or more maste would now be in. Another huge derrick which looms up beside the Boston is used to put in the six-inch guns. The carriages for the eight-inch guns are not yet ready, and those guns will not be put in for some time. A board of inspection visited the Pensacola to determine the extent of repairs necessary it fit her for a one and for a three years' cruise, and ar estimate of their cost will be sent to the Navy De

THE MAHONY INQUEST ADJOURNED TILL JULY. Coroner Nugent Friday afternoon began the in quest into the death of Daniel Mahony, the foreman, of No. 109 Mott-st., who was killed by the falling of the building at John-st. and Broadway on the after noon of May 24. There was a large number of spectators in the court room. Horace Secor, jr., appeared for Mr. Southard, the contractor, who came around with several diagrams of the building and felt sure that he could prove himself absolutely free from all blame in the matter. The first witness was Jame F. Rickert, a laborer in the employ of Mr. Southard. He said that Mahony had charge of the men who were at work on the top floor of the building on the after noon in question. The witness was one of these, Shortly after 5 o'clock he heard some one say that the floor was cracking but paid no attention to it. Soon afterward the floor gave way and he was thrown into the cellar but sustained no injuries. He could not account for the collapse unless it was due to the poor construction of the building. An adjournment was made until the second week in July.

THE GRAYS' GOOD-BYE TO NEW-YORK.

The "Richmond Grays," Company A, 1st Virginia Vol-unteers, under command of Captain Bolsaieux, started for home yesterday afternoon by the Old Dominion Line steamer Seneca. They were escorted to the dock by Com pany A of the 9th Regiment, under Captain G. T. Lorigan, and the fife and drum band of the regiment. The visitors, who were the guests of Company A, were delighted with the attention and entertainment accorded them at the armory, and gave vent to their feelings after they boarded essel by many times three cheers and a whole jungle Cantain Boissieux said : " As for myself, ti only thing I was allowed to buy here was a little box of parlor matches for five cents." HIS PLANS FOR NEXT SKASON—NEW PLAYS OF THE LONDON AND PARIS THEATRES. Manager Frohman was back at his desk yest at the Lyceum. By his side was a large bouqu lowers, adorned with ribbons of the National ec the offering of "Aunt Louisa" Eldridge. "One of the papers incorrectly reported I was iil," said Mr. Froh " One of the nan, "but The Tribune was correct in stating that I was all the better for my trip. 'Decore is also still being presented to large business.

"Mr. Daly, as you doubtless know, has the form piece, and will probably be able to run it an entire eason, should he so desire. I secured the first call on two plays to be produced next season by wellknown Parisian dramatists. I also effected an ar rangement with M. Duquesnel, director of the Porte St. Martin, to have the American rights for all of his plays that I may desire to handle. In London is agreed with Sims and Pettitt for the choice of two plays on which they are now at work. One is a do mestic drama, and the other a 'society play.' will not be done till next season, and I shall not want either till the season after. In my next season I hope present three plays, 'Sweet Lavender,' 'Honor ight' and the cornedy Mr. I loyd is to write.

"'Sweet Lavender' is a charming piece, the best thing, I think, that Pinero has written. It has not that extreme local coloring which made some of hi pieces ineffective here. The story is of a domestic nature, yet, with the exception of the heroine, all the chief parts are comedy roles. That played by Terry thief parts are comedy roles. That played by Terry cill suit Le Moyne admirably. He is a barrister, who is a kind of refined Eccles in 'Caste.' If Wyndham hould not come to America next season, he will probledy do 'The Wife,' he himself playing Rutherford, of late he has won much favor in serious work, it is a market to be a serious work. It is a serious work of the problem with which this theatre will be reopened arly in August. I have not yet decided with which fine the three pleces I have mentioned I shall begin my egular season."

JUROR DILLON WAS ONLY JOKING.

Coroner Levy thinks that there has been a good deal of needless worry over the possibility of Juror Daniel Dillon absenting himself on Tuesday, and thus delaying the inquest on the death of Lineman Murray. He said yesterday that after the adjourment or Friday he had warned Dillon of the consequences of absenting himself. Mr. Dillon told the Coroner that he had been joking, and had no intention of leaving the city for any purpose. A Tribune reporter tried to find Dillon yesterday, and was told that he had gone to see the St. Louis delegates off.

"I was once in partnership with a man named Connors," he said, "but I don't know any of the other men mentioned, and if they practised cracking safes in my office they did it without my knowledge."

Johnson and Pritchett met in jail, when the former told Pritchett the story of the murder. This story was Pritchete's testimony at the trial of Johnson. Johnson was sentenced to be hanged and Pritchett left the State. It is now said by Johnson's friends that the whole evidence was perjury. Jehnson was reprieved. THE ANCIENTS OF BOSTON.

A MILITARY COMPANY 250 YEARS OLD.

ENTERTAINING THE OLD GUARD OF NEW-YORK AND THE HONORABLE ARTILLERY OF LONDON.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.]. ston, June 2.-The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston practically began to-day to celebrate the 250th anniversary of its organization, although neminally it is to begin on Monday, the date on which the formal drum-head election of officers curs on the Common, as it has from time immemo The military guests of the Ancients arrived t They consisted of the Old Guard of New-York, and a delegation from the Honor-able Artillery Company of London, with both of which organizations the Ancients have for years maintained friendly relations. On their arrival in Boston this morning, they were met at the Old Colony Station by a committee of the Ancients consisting of Adjutant Keeler, Lieutenant-Colonel Henry E. Smith Captain Samuel Nicholson and Lieutenant J. Henry Taylor. There were also present Colonel Henry Walker and Lieutenant E. E. Allen, of the committee of arrangements. The London visitors had just returned from a trip to Gettysburg, West Point, and many other places of interest under escort of Colonel Walker, Lieuenant Allen, Captain Thomas F. Temple, Captain E. R. Frost, and others. Crowds of spectators lined the streets through which they marched, and the visitors were greeted with the atmost cordiality. The Old Guard has visited Boston organization fwice within the last ten years and the Ancients have visited New-York, and an Ancient anniversary at which one or two of the Old Guard were not present, or an Old Guard ball at which there ere no Ancients, would not seem exactly right to in Gillette's new play, "A Legal Wreck," which the Boston and New-York soldiery. With the London ompany the exchange of courtesies has been by corre- | mer. spondence, except in occasional instances; as, when Major Charles W. Stevens, of the Ancients, visited London, or when Lieutenant Hayward, of the London company, visited Boston. Last summer, however, the London company celebrated its 350th anniversary, and Colonel Henry Walker and others of the Ancients were present by special invitation and were royally entertained. This year the Ancients celebrate the 250th anniversary of the organization of which they are so proud, and the visit is returned. The Honorable Artillery Company, though not boast-ing the word "Ancient" as a part of its title, is really Ine parent organization, and from it in 1638 the Mas sachusetts Company sprang. It is said by Captala G. A. Raikes, who has written its history, to be the est ancient military body or corps in the British Empire, if not in the world, and was incorporated by Henry VIII, August 25, 1537, under the title of the Fraternity or Guild of St. George. Then it consisted of archers. Now it represents the infantry, cavalry and light artillery arms of the service.

This afternoon officers of the Old Guard were entertained by the New-England Club, and this evening the 250th anniversar; celebration of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Com pay began with a reception at Mosic Hall. In addition to the London visitors and the Old Guard, invitations were tendered to Governor Ames and his staff, the commissioned officers of the Massachusetts Militia, officers of the United States Army on duty within the State and representatives of the First Light Infantry Regiment of Providence, the Newport Artillery Company, the Governor's Foot Guard and the Putnan Phalanx, of Hartford, Conn.; Amoskeag Veterans, of Manchester, N. H.; Philadelphia City Troop; the Richmond Blues, of Richmond, Va.; Albany Burgesses Corps, Troy Citizens' Corps, and many others. Mayor O'Brien, the Board of Aldermen and other promine people were present. On Sunday the military guests church and in the after noon will be driven through the suburbs of the city. On Monday the anniversary celebration will take place with all the usual features. In the foreoon the Ancients and their guests will march to the New Old South Church, where the annual sermon will be preached by the Rev. Phillips Brooks. About 1 o'clock, dinner will be served in Fanueuil Hall. After dinner the annual drum-head election will take place on the Common, and the newly elected officers will be commissioned by the Governor. The company will then return to the armory and be dismissed. The programme for Tuesday includes a trip down the harbor, and in the evening a reception at the house of Governor Ames. On Wednesday they will go to Lowell, and in the evening will be given a reception by the Central Club. Thursday will be devoted by the officers and committee of the Boston Company to the entertainment of military guests remaining in the city, by showing them various places of interest. On Friday a portion of the Ancients, and their guests from England, will go to Providence, and Saturday will be passed in a quiet manner. be preached by the Rev. Phillips Brooks.

RAID ON A DOWN-TOWN POOL-ROOM. MISCARRIED. BECAUSE THE OFFICER IN CHARGE WAS RECOGNIZED-NO ARRESTS MADE. Shortly after noon yesterday, a crowd of twenty-five or thirty men and boys came rushing out of No. 33 suddenness that amazed outsiders. At first it was raid had been made on De Lacy's poel-room, which flourishes there, as well as in various other places, from time to time. The raid was made by a special force from Superintendent Murray, at the request of the Society for the Prevention of Crime. McCord was recognized by the guard, however, and all hands escaped. Nothing of any consequence was captured. This society has been waging a relentless war for over a week against these dens. Through its Committee for the Enforcementof Law,"of which D. I. Whitney is the head, Lovill's, De Lacy's and all the other pool-rooms were closed week before las-None of them dared to open except De Lacy, who has been doing business very cautiously.

Yesterday morning the society's special officers re ported that a crowd of men and boys were buying pools as usual at his place in Park Row. On hearing this, Mr. Whitney at once asked Superintendent Murray for men to raid the place. Mr. Murray immedi ately sent down Officer McCord and three others head of the states, a sharp-eved boy with his coat off recognized him and gave the alarm. In five seconds the crowd of buyers and sellers were tumbling over one another to escape, and almost carried the officers down-stairs with them. De Lacy was cool enough to grab the money and the pool tickets, however, and cleared out with them safely. Mr. Whitney expressed regret at the fallure to capt ure the law-breakers, but added: "We will show the promoters of these pest-holes that we mean business, and we will also show the negligent police captains especially Captain Carpenter, who is the worst of the four downtown officials, that these dens will be closed, whether he helps us or not. Captain McLoughlin has done something, but Carpenter, Slevin and Garland have made no effort to carry out the law."

The society has now secured the names of all the owners, lessees, etc., of property in which these pool-rooms are located. They will confer with the District-Atterney to morrow in regard to them, and there is no doubt that a vigorous prosecution will be made against every landlord who fails to clear out these law breaking tenants.

GENERAL BUTLER MAS A CANDIDATE

HE IS GENERAL WILLIAM TECUMSER SHERMAN. Boston, June 2 (Special).-General Butler has been interviewed in regard to the political situation in the State and Nation. He was asked if he did not think the prohibition question would be of special importance in the State campaign this year.

"Every indication is that it will, but it has be my experience in politics in regard to the prohibition vote, that there is an old proverb that applies to it:
'All signs fail in a dry time.' It has always been a disappointing quality to its friends and a derision to In this State it has always fallen tween two stools, the highly respectable and declared purpose of the enthusiastic and honest supporters of prohibition on the one side, who believe in it as against all other issues, and the Prohibitionists who are Republicans first and Prohibitionists afterward and who have hitherto always halted when their Re publicanism would be likely to do them harm. would seem as though the Republican National Con-vention would declare for prohibition. If so, there will be a large prohibition vote, but this vote will not endanger the Republican candidate."

In regard to the National contest General Butle said: "There are several candidates, pre-eminently well equipped by long service under the Government, like Sherman and Allison; but since the selection Mr. Cleveland in 1884, my belief that any equipment was necessary for the Presidency has been so thoroughly shaken that I am afraid to use that factor as an element in the action of a convention. Less equipment, mor I am not good at guessing on unknown quan titles, and I have no vote in any convention or vol in any party action. I think I know of a candidate who could be elected beyond all possibility of doubt Whether he will run, I do by the Republican party. not know. How he would run, if he gives his con-sent to run, I do not know. To him there is no objection, because if he is elected he will have at his side an adviser who is as well equipped as any other man in the country to be President. My candidate is General William Tecumsch Sherman. march to the White House as he marched to the and if anybody shall undertake to say that General sherman is a soldier and not a statesman, that question need not be argued, because his brother John will stand beside him and see to it that the country takes no detriment become of the name and blood of Sher-man.

The house imports many quaint varieties of fans, including the kuskus fan, which is fringed with the roots of an Irdian herb and yields, when use, a faint lavender-like perfume; an oblong fan which acts as an audiphone, and many others. anese fans with natural bamboo sticks are shown in silken gauze, ready for the brush or pencil of the decorator and there are also silk fans painted by Japanese artists.

TROUBLE OVER A FRENCH NEWSPAPER.

Louis Lafon is president of the Cercle de l'Harmonic Francais and editor of "L'Independent," a daily newspaper. Two of the stockholders, Messrs. Mathot and May, are striving to deprive him of any further control in the business. According to Mr. Mathot, Mr. Lafon agreed to keep the paper running for a year at a profit to the stockholders, instead of which it was 86,000 in debt at the end of that term. He advanced $1,780 in payment of running expenses, and on May 7, transferred this claim to his nephew, George Garot, who purchased the paper for $285, on judgment obtained by default on his claim, and has since, it is stated, transferred it back to his uncle. Mr. Lafon stated to a Tribune reporter yesterday that he did not recognize either May or Mathot as stockh and questioned their right to interfere with the business of the concern. He supplied the $6,000 deficiency, he says, from a partrotte motive and to keep the paper going in the interests of the French colony, and not because it was any source of profit to himself.

SUNDAY AT THE WILD WEST.

Wood

The Wild West camp will be open this afternoon and every Sunday afternoon during the season, agording the public an opportunity of witnessing just how the Sabbath is kept on the frontier. The admission is put thaif price.

The reception given to Buffalo Bill and the braves and cowboys exceeded all expectations, and he and his par-ner. Nate Salsbury, have every reason to feel gratifed. Since the opening on last Wednesday, the grounds at Erastina have been packed with enthusiastic and de-lighted men, women and children. The success has been lighted men, women and children. The success has been beyond the fondest anticipations of the proprietors, and there seems no doubt about its continuing and even increasing as the weather becomes settled and warms. The new contingent of Indians and cowboys from the West make a fine showing and add materially to the strength of the exhibition. The new bucking horses have created a sensation, and since their appearance several of the most expert cowboys and Mexican riders have been laid up for repairs. They are exceedingly difficult to ride, and come near bucking their brains out against ride, and come near bucking their brains out against the fences at each performance. The facilities for reaching the grounds are ample, and there is not at any time any overcowding or discomfort. Performance are given daily and nightly, rain or shine,
